DORF KETAL WINS EDGE AWARD FOR ERP CONSOLIDATION AND IT PROJECT

September, 2014 – Mumbai, India – Dorf Ketal Pvt. (I) Ltd. wins the prestigious 2014 InformationWeek EDGE Award. Dorf Ketal's ERP Consolidation and IT Transformation Project was recognized for demonstrating outstanding technology vision with regards to the successful deployment of Oracle in order to simplify IT. Vice President of IT, Seshadri Viswanathan, says of the consolidation: "Dorf Ketal adopted technology as a business enabler. We consolidated infrastructure, applications, and technologies. The consolidation started off with operational efficiency and the byproduct of that exercise was cost savings. We moved infrastructure and services from the US to India. We also created the global support center in India. From multiple ERPs, the move was to one, across the enterprise – Oracle EBS. From multiple mailing platforms, the transition was to a single global mail exchange. This helped us achieve process efficiency and economies of scale. We have other big plans for IT consolidation of the global ERP platform. We are not into the last leg where we move on to Brazil and expand the ERP there. After that the focus will be on other business applications. Mostly everything in the future will roll out of a single location so management is easier, efficient, and cost effective." Dorf Ketal's project was selected from more than 200 nominations submitted by various companies across India. The jury panel, consisting of executives and industry experts, considered factors that provide "EDGE" to an organization's business operations: originality or uniqueness of the concept, role of solution in addressing the business issue, complexity of the project, innovative use of technology, and business impact.
